CHAPTER 1

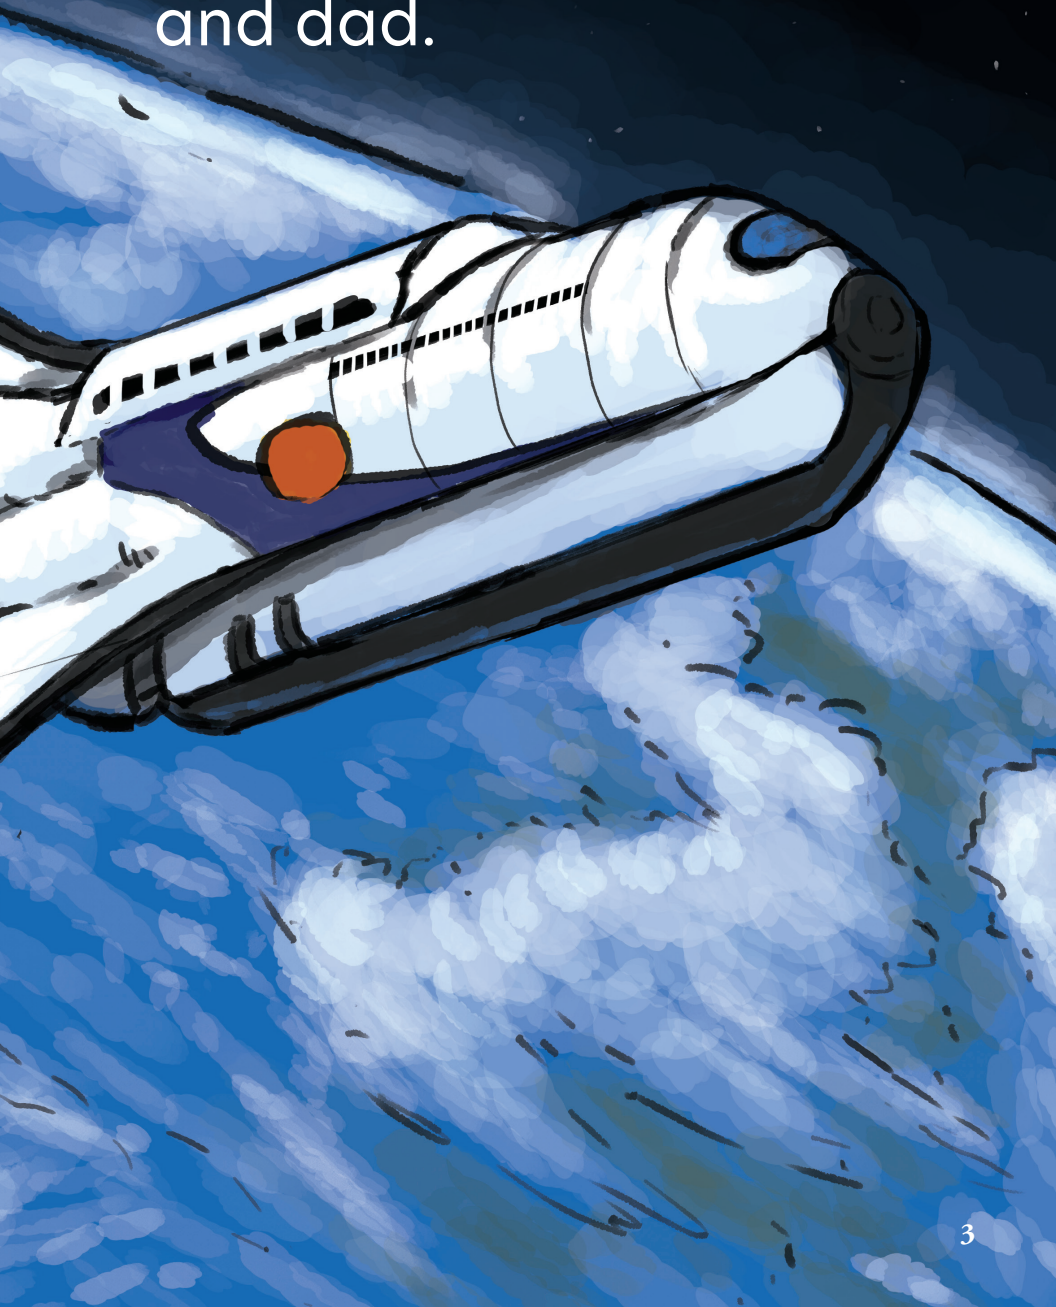

Mark's New Home

This was Mark's home. It had tall trees by it.

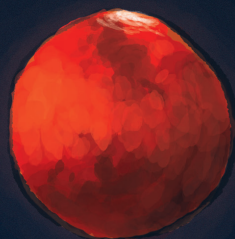

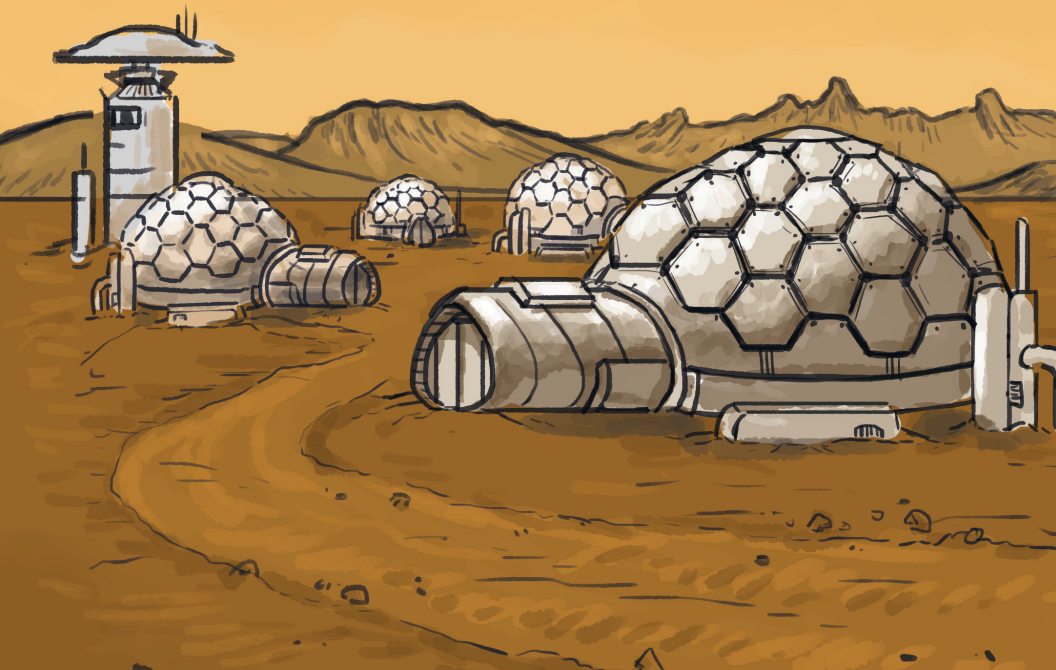

Mark is going to a new home with his mother and dad.

Look! There is Mark's
new home—Mars,
the Red Planet.

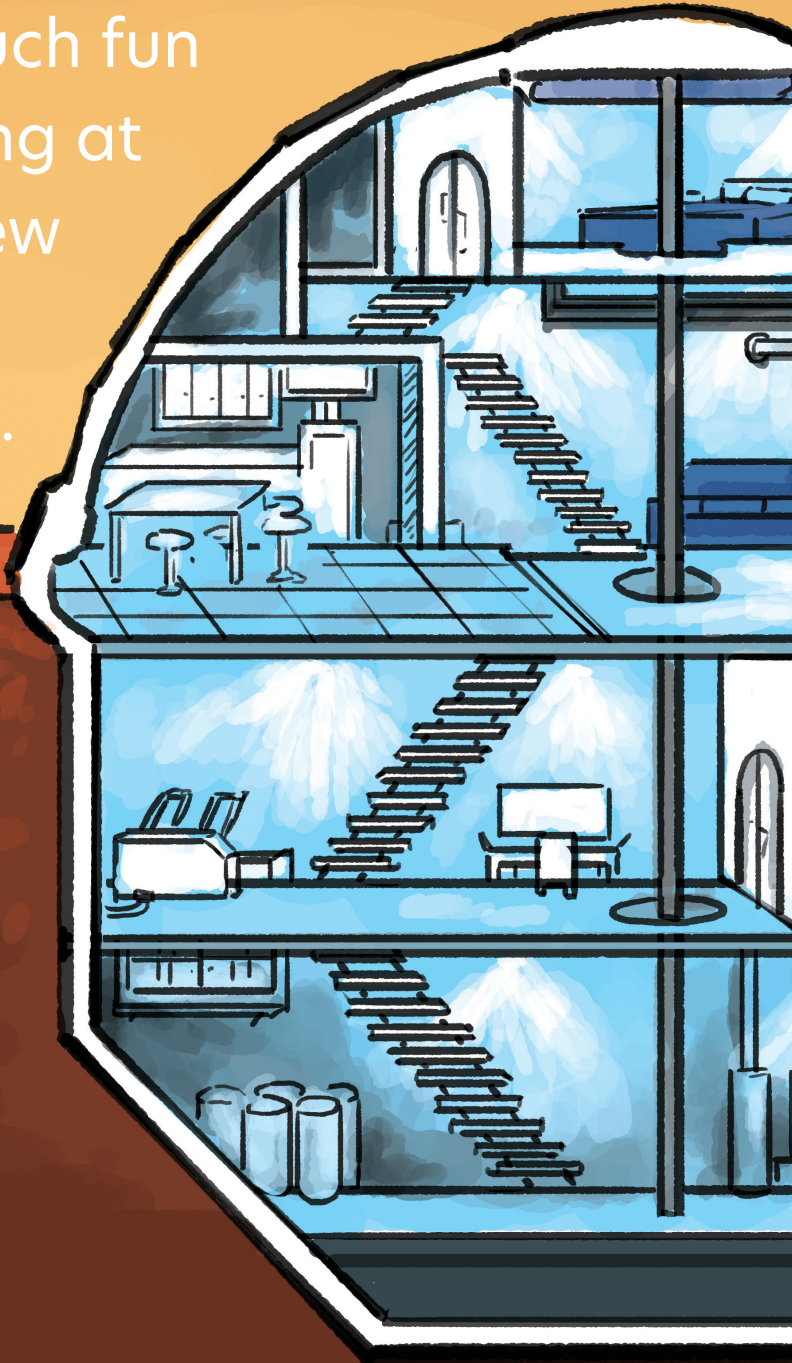

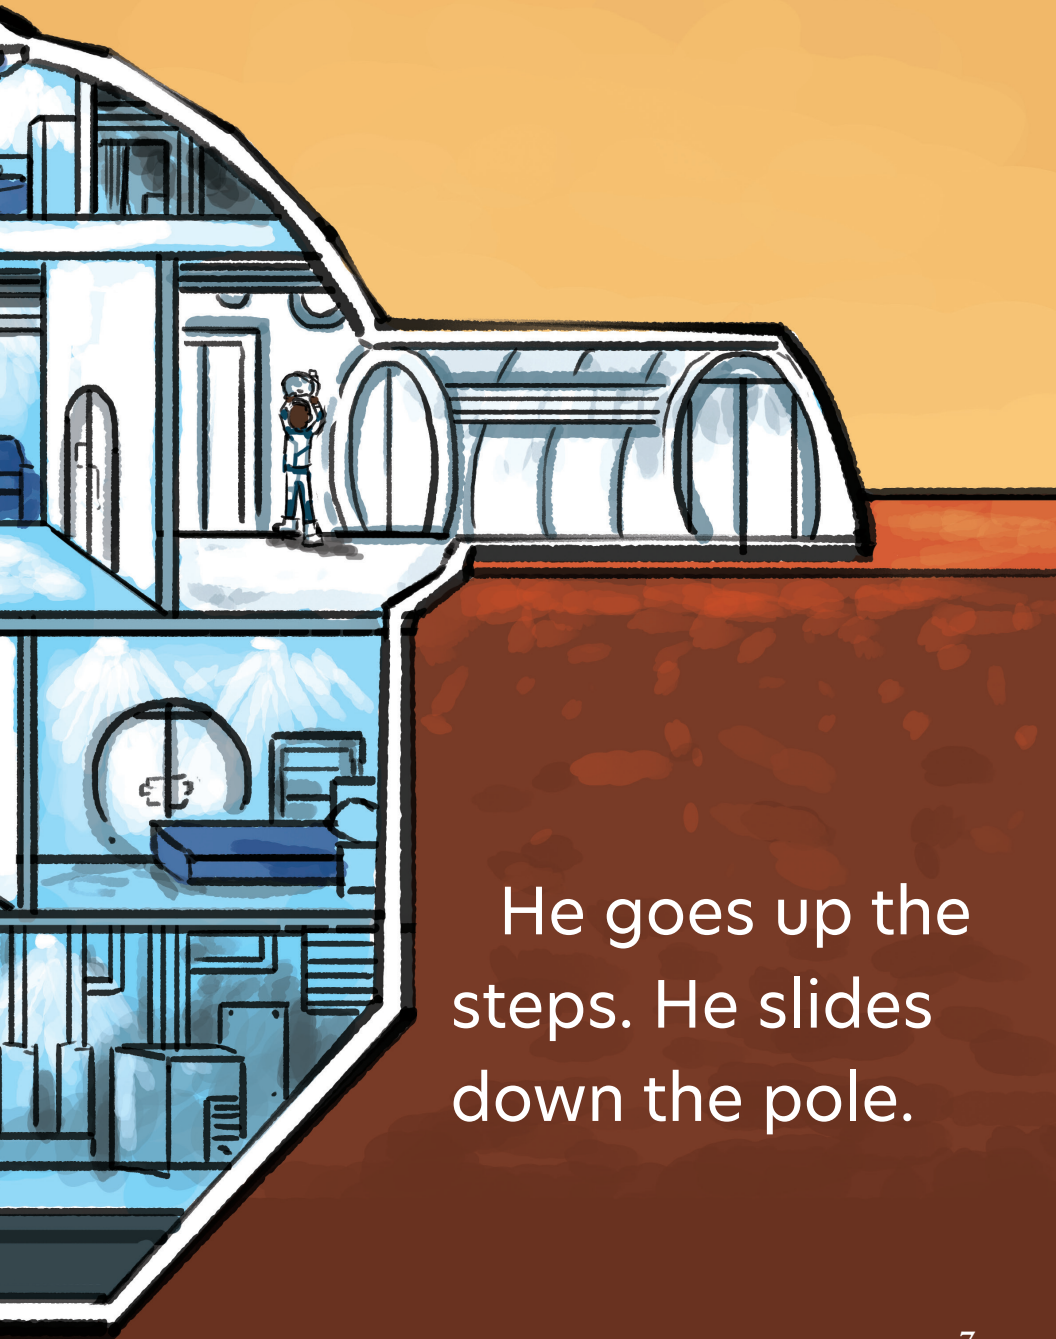

Mark's new home is a dome. Do you like it?

It has no trees by it, but it has a ton of red sand.

Mark has
so much fun
looking at his new small home.

He goes up the steps. He slides
down the pole.

An illustration of the interior of a tent. The tent is a simple dome shape with a central arched doorway. The interior is dark blue. On the left, a blue sleeping bag is partially visible. In the foreground, a pair of white sneakers with black laces and soles sits on the ground. To the right, an orange backpack with black straps and a handle lies on the ground. The tent's interior is illuminated by several small, glowing white lights that resemble stars, scattered across the upper part of the tent. The background outside the tent is a dark, black sky with a few faint stars.

Mark sleeps here. His bed is soft and snug.

He stares at
the stars in the black, black sky.

CHAPTER 1

A Ship Lands on Mars

Mark sees a ship flying in the sky. It will land on Mars soon.

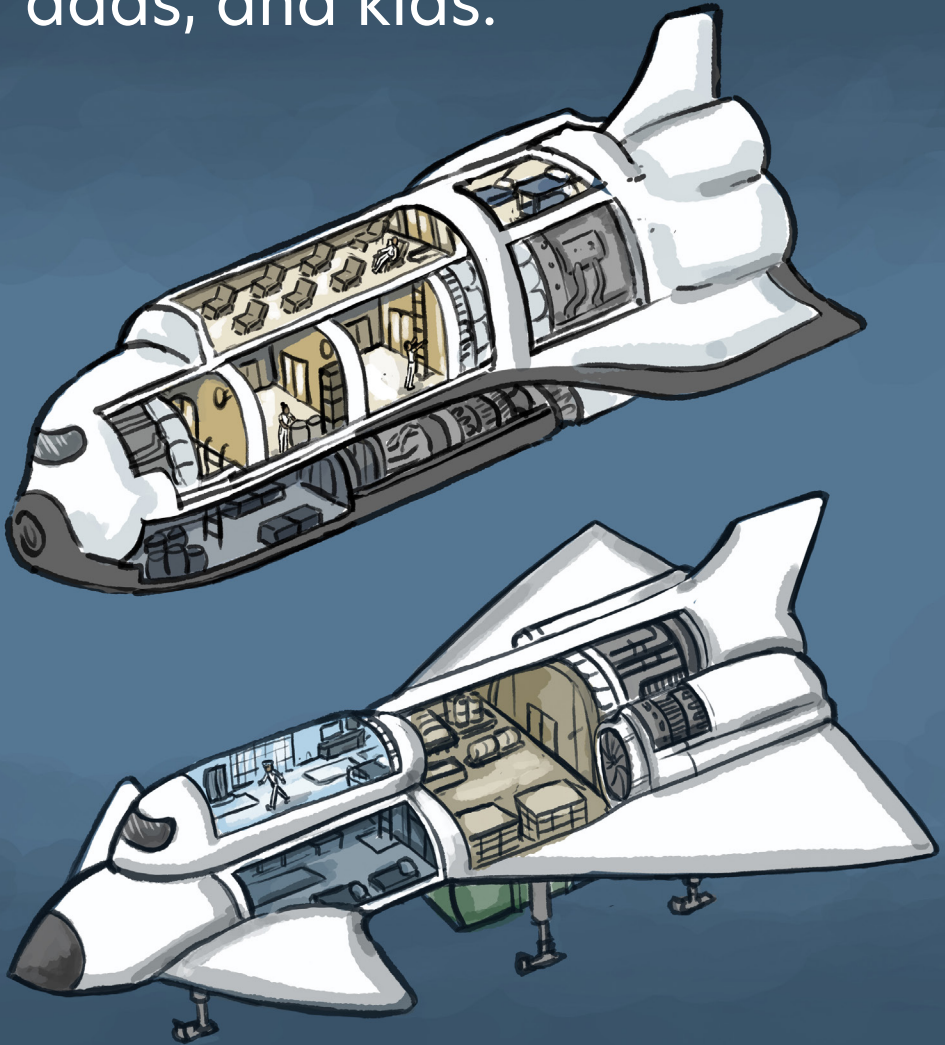

Mark goes with his mom
and dad to see the ship
land.

Many come to see each time a ship comes in.

Some ships bring moms,
dads, and kids.

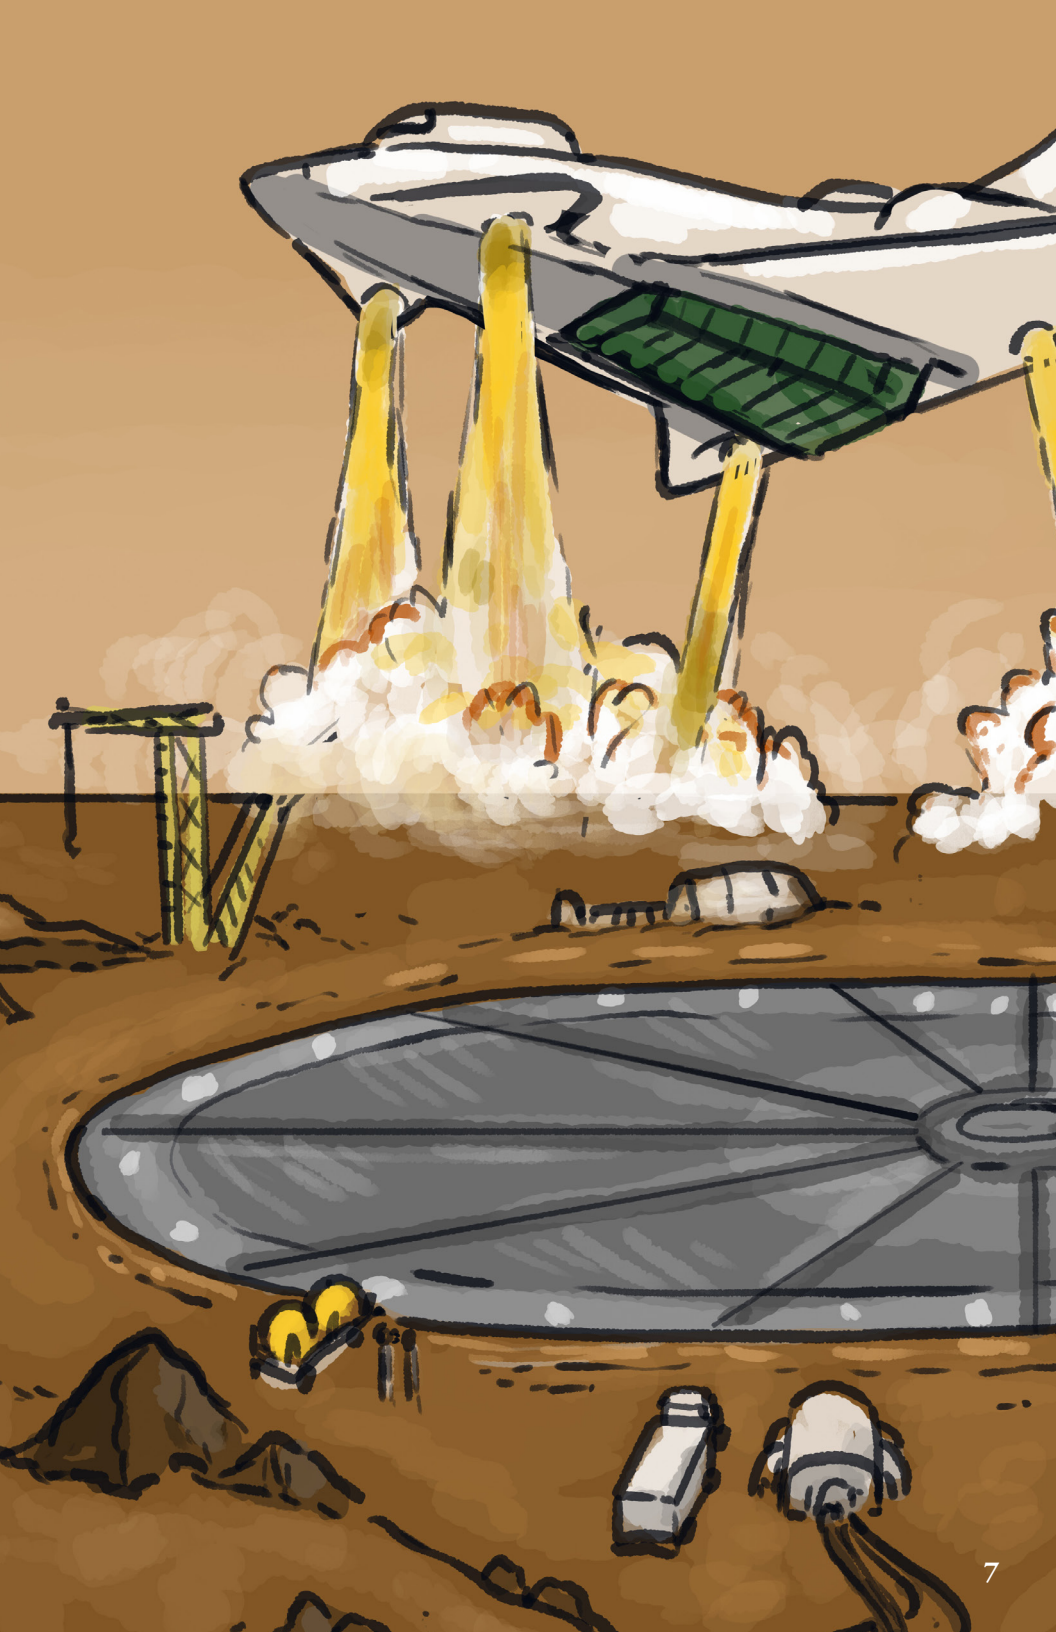

Some ships bring tools
and food.

“What’s in this ship?”
Mark asks. His mom smiles and says, “You will see.”

The ship shoots out yellow flames as it comes down. It does not go too fast so it can make a soft landing.

As it gets close, it stirs
up the dust and makes a big red cloud.

Now Mark cannot see
the ship!
